

JAN NAYAK CHAUDHARY DEVI LAL

THE TORCH BEARER

(25 September, 1914 – 6 April 2001)

Chaudhary Devi Lal University, Sirsa is named after Jan Nayak Chaudhary Devi Lal, the former Deputy Prime Minister of India and the former Chief Minister of Haryana. Ch. Devi Lal, a veteran freedom fighter, a rebel against the British Raj, a symbol of patience and fortitude, was a man of action, be it freedom movement, post-independence politics or for the amelioration of the plight of the suffering peasantry. He was looked upon not only with love and affection during his younger days, but also with reverential awe in his later life, when he popularly nicknamed "Tau". The welfare of the people was a mission with Chaudhary Devi Lal, who strove hard to see the peoples' power reflected in the peoples' rule. He was committed to the development of the backward classes, which included farmers, the oppressed and women. His primary objective was to provide strength to the elementary forces of life. He always wanted the present education system to impart true knowledge. He desired fundamental and total change in education. He wanted meaningful investments in education, especially in a manner relevant to employment for the youth and welfare of the poor. While he addressed the concerns of the youth in terms of education and skill development, he worked for the introduction of several other social welfare measures like providing health facilities which were taken up in right earnest. As a result, hundreds of schools, colleges, hospitals and health centres came up where none existed before. He also wanted the youth to have a definite goal of contribution towards nation building.

He wanted teachers which could inspire students to participate in constructive work. He also considered it essential that schools be opened which are as good as public schools for the talented children of the economically backward and poor, who otherwise cannot study for want of means. He firmly believed that 'village India is real India', that's why he regarded it as our 'dharma' (duty) to provide a good, balanced diet, necessary clothing and shelter to each individual living there. He firmly held that 'true Swaraj' means participation of the poor, illiterate, underprivileged, millions living in our villages in the governance of the state at every level. As the Deputy Prime Minister of India and being one of the architects of the state of Haryana he took many measures for the agricultural development. His services to Haryana and the country are indeed unforgettable. Truly, the Jan Nayak was a 'Karmayogi' and a 'Colossal' guide whose principles and values will always inspire the coming generations.

MESSAGE

The higher education system is the backbone of a country. As we know, education inculcates ethical, moral, social and patriotic values among students. To do overall development of students, a teacher may play vital role. A competent teacher is the key to the evolution of comprehensive curriculum and its effective dissemination. Teachers are not born but they are made. Therefore, teacher preparation and training both at pre-service and in-service levels provide the roadmap for the promotion of educational programmes.

From the Vedic era onwards, a lot of changes have continuously being incurred in fields of education and learning. Further, we are moving from the teacher-centric educational programmes to student-centric pedagogies. Consequently, there is an urgent need to integrate existing theoretical concepts and practical teaching experiences with newer approaches and ideas in educational research.

In corollary, it gives me immense pleasure to announce that Chaudhary Devi Lal University, Sirsa is going to open admissions in Master in Education (M.Ed.) for the academic session 2017-18. The aim of this University is to provide world-class teachers in the field of education, because the quality of education will eventually give a boost to the quality of society at large. Our focus is to create excellent teachers who have in themselves confidence, communication skill, research orientation and capability to stand-out among the equals with full commitment to their profession.

The M.Ed. programme visualizes developing skills, implementing and assessing curricular, co-curricular and instructional plans and exhibit sensitivity to individual student's differences and their cultural backgrounds. I am hopeful that this programme may meet the challenges in teachers' education and educational research by imparting required knowledge base for all aspects of teachers' education.

I extend warm welcome to the students joining the University and wish them a very promising and successful professional career.
